Інтеґраційні освітянські перебудови, що були закладені Болонським процесом, чітко визначили орієнтири на подальшу модернізацію освітянської діяльності в контексті Європейських вимог. Найбільшого ефекту в цьому можна досягти лише за наявності у студентів модифікованого посібника, який містить різноманітні методичні вказівки щодо вивчення мови, індивідуальні завдання. Він допомагає сформувати особливу наукову культуру мислення, а також здійснити самостійний тренінг-контроль рівня засвоєння матеріалу. Завдання мають як індивідуальний, так і груповий характер.

Організація позааудиторної самостійної роботи студентів полягає в на обхідності більш широкого огляду тематики курсу з використанням основної та допоміжної літератури.

Програмою передбачено 156 годин практичних занять (аудиторна самостійна робота) та 72 години самостійної роботи (позааудиторна самостійна робота) студентів І курсу.

МЕТОДИЧНІ МАТЕРІАЛИ ДЛЯ АУДИТОРНОЇ САМОСТІЙНОЇ РОБОТИ

Система вправ має забезпечити формування у свідомості студента: 1) базового лексичного мінімуму англійської мови; 2) базового мінімуму, необхідного для поглиблення граматичної та синтаксичної компетенції студентів; 3) сучасних уявлень про реалії англомовних країн; 4) відповідних знань щодо певних термінів, абревіатур і ско рочень.

ВПРАВИ ДЛЯ САМОСТІЙНОЇ АУДИТОРНОЇ РОБОТИ

Вправа 1. Read the text and underline words and expressions which can be used for making generalizations.

Songs, poems and proverbs about friendship are common and can be found in all languages. It is so because friendship has a great value in our life. Everyone would like to have a bosom friend, someone trusted, loyal, sincere and faithful. Friends do not have to be the same age. It sometimes happens that mothers are the greatest friends to their daughters and grant parents are the best friends to their grandchildren. It is good to have a friend in the family.
Some people consider animals as their friends. Everyone knows, for example, that dogs make good pets. They have been our faithful companions for centuries. It has been scientifically proved that animals have a great therapeutic effect on people who are ill, if they have an animal to care for, they will get better more quickly.

“А friend in need is a friend indeed” — according to this old saying a good friend should always help us in difficulties, cheer us up and raise our spirits when we are down, troubled or when nothing is going right. That is what friends are for...

However, friendship must be cherished to become stronger and stronger, it must be “planted like a seed”. We should never let our friends down when they count on us or otherwise we may destroy our close relationship with them.

It is more and more difficult to make a relationship nowadays, especially in big cities where people are anonymous and where we sometimes do not know who lives next door. However if we feel lonely, we can always look around and try to strike up a friendship with someone who also longs for it.

Вправа 14. Read and retell the text. Make questions.

We often ask ourselves if our lifestyle is healthy. Whether we live long and happily very much depends on how we live and how we treat our bodies. Therefore, what is the best recipe to keep fit and healthy? It seems that the most important things to be in good condition are a good diet and vigorous exercise. We should also take into account our habits and indulgences. As far as diet is concerned, we should always give priority to simple whole food over richer and meatier fatty products. We should eat a lot of fruit and vegetables because they contain vitamins and minerals which are good for our health. We should avoid fat-building sweets, ice-cream, cookies or crisps and instead eat whole-meal bread, low fat cottage cheese and drink skinned milk or yoghurt. If possible, we should eat regularly five times a day and our diet should not only be balanced but also varied. Those who wish to be slim do not necessarily have to starve. Lean meat and fresh fruit salads, for instance, may appease one’s hunger but are less calorific than cakes or sweets.

What else is harmful to our health? Some people do not realize that their lifestyle has a great influence on their comfort. Technological progress has made our lives easier but at the same time we have become lazy. We drive to work, spend half a day sitting behind the desk, we watch television for hours and as a result we feel unfit. What can therefore be done about it? Generally, people who take regular exercise do not only feel better but also live longer! If we spend at least half an hour daily playing tennis, running, swimming or even walking we can achieve deep relaxation and at the same time protect ourselves from such serious medical problems as coronary disease, heart attack or circulatory disorders. Let us think of all these health benefits and start practicing sports!

Another important thing for our health is sleep and rest. We should bear in mind that only relaxed people living without too much presser and worry have a chance to keep healthy. However, that’s not everything. Equally important up giving up such bad habits as drinking alcohol or smoking cigarettes. Some young people are of the opinion that smoking is calm them down and make them feel better. What utter nonsense! It is scientifically proved that people who smoke one half to one packet of cigarettes daily die three years sooner than non-smokers. Besides, cigarettes cause serious diseases such as lung cancer, heart disease or bronchial troubles. We should become more health conscious and aware that we are basically responsible for our own well-being.

Вправа 15. Read the statements 1–8 and decide whether or not you agree with them. When you do not agree with a statement, change the modal verb to one of the alternatives below that more accurately reflects your opinion.

The Beatles

The Beatles were an English rock band from Liverpool, comprised of John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr. They are among the most commercially successful and critically acclaimed popular music bands in history, and their innovative music and cultural impact helped define the 1960s.

The Beatles were the best-selling musical act of the 20th century. In the United Kingdom, they released more than 40 different singles, albums, and EPs that reached number one. This commercial success was repeated in many other countries: their record company, EMI, estimated that by 1985 they had sold over one billion discs or tapes worldwide. The Recording Industry Association of America certified the Beatles as the highest selling band of all time based on American sales of singles and albums.

As the Beatles’ fame spread, the frenzied adulation of the group, predominantly from teenage female fans, was dubbed ‘Beatlemania’. On 7 February 1964, a crowd of four thousand fans at Heathrow Airport waved to the Beatles as they took off on Pan Am flight 101 for their first trip to America as a group.

On 26 October 1965, Queen Elizabeth II appointed the four Beatles Members of the Order of the British Empire, or MBEs. The band was nominated by Prime Minister Harold Wilson, The award — at that time primarily given to military veterans and civic leaders — sparked some conservative MBE recipients to return their insignia in protest. The first two were returned on 14 June, before the Beatles received theirs on 26 October 1965. On 15 August that year, the Beatles performed the first stadium concert in the history of rock, playing at Shea Stadium in New York to a crowd of 55,600.

The Beatles’ constant demands to create new sounds on every new recording.

The Beatles continued to absorb influences long after their initial success, often finding new musical and lyrical avenues by listening to their contemporaries.

Along with studio tricks such as sound effects, unconventional microphone placements, tape loops, double tracking and vari-speed recording, the Beatles began to augment their recordings with instruments that were unconventional for rock music at the time.
McCartney publicly announced the break-up on 10 April 1970, a week before releasing his first solo album, McCartney. Pre-release copies included a press release with a self-written interview explaining the end of the Beatles and his hopes for the future.

The Beatles’ partnership was finally dissolved in 1975.

Впрає 19. Read the article and pay attention to the word phrases, and passive construction and make the best title.

Hollywood's blockbuster for the year 2001 is said to be a follow up — though not a sequel — to Titanic. In one way, it is certainly following a path marked out by Hollywood's most successful film; Pearl Harbor has set a new record in big-budget films; but the movie may not have the same worldwide success as the 1998 mega hit.

As soon as the film Titanic showed itself to be the enormous hit that had been hoped for, the search for a sequel was on. But Titanic II being a somewhat improbable proposition, it was towards other defining moments in recent history that Hollywood ideas-men turned their attention. Now, the result of their active thinking is about to hit the screens. Pearl Harbor, a love story set against the backdrop of another great catastrophe, had an initial budget of $145 million — 45% greater than that of Titanic. The movie opened in the USA in Spring, and will be on screens in Europe a few weeks or months later, depending on the country. As in Titanic, the love story element of Pearl Harbor is fiction; but as with Titanic, the historic background against which it is set was a very real event; even more than the loss of the Titanic, it was an event which helped to determine the direction of world history in the years that followed.

Pearl Harbor is unlikely to have quite as much impact across the world as Titanic did: the enormous success of the latter was due partly to the fact that it was not essentially an American story, but a story that belongs as much to United States history, as to European history. When the Titanic set off on that fatal journey in 1912, she was carrying an assortment of people from different nations; she was a British ship that took on passengers at Cherbourg and Cork, before setting off for the USA.

Though the tragedy of Pearl Harbor was to be a determining moment in the history of the 20th century, the story does not conjure up the same kind of memories in Europe; and although it also involves two nations — the Americans and the Japanese — and was really a tragedy for both, it is unlikely that Japanese movie-goers will be as keen on the film as Americans — particularly coming so soon after the accidental sinking of a Japanese ship by an American submarine earlier this year, in the waters not far from Pearl Harbor.

That being said, as a major Second World War action movie, filmed with all the sophistication that modern technology can offer, Pearl Harbor is certain to be a big movie, and possibly the biggest movie of 2001 — at least in the USA. If the movie itself does is not enough to make sure of that, the Disney advertising and media departments will do so.

Вправа 20. Read the text and think of advantages and disadvantages of television in our daily life.

Many people say that the television is chewing-gum for the eyes.

Indeed we often watch television because we have nothing to do. A typical person spends about four hours daily in front of a TV set. However, we do not realize that television can do us harm.

First of all, it stops people from talking. Many families set up their activities and lifestyle around a TV program schedule. They do not communicate their feelings, do not exchange impressions or views but have their eyes glued to the TV instead. In this way the strong relationships in the family are weakening.

Apart from that television has a very negative impact on children who are exposed to silly cartoons or violent detective stories. Not only do they waste their time by watching programs what do not teach them anything but they also getting tired of it.

In our days many people speak about television: some said it’s doing a lot of harm; other said that nobody makes you watch TV. But television — is a great amount of information and has got its advantages and disadvantages.

I think we must watch TV to be well informed. It gives wonderful possibilities for education. Besides, there is a considerable variety of programes. We can choose what we want to see.

Television brings the world to our livingroom. We see people in our country and in other lands, and learn of their customs, occupations, opinions and problems.

We become better informed by watching documentaries, science programmes, discussions and by learning about the most important economic, social and political issues of the day.

We see great events, which will pass into history. We can see famous people. We become more cultured people by learning more of the arts.
So, television has many advantages, but there are bad sides too. Some pupils do their homework in front of the television screen. Others rush their homework so they can watch television. In either case, the quality of the work is affected. Some pupils are so attracted by television that they do not do their homework at all.

Some children have made watching TV their main leisure activity and they are not enriching their personalities by developing hobbies and belonging to clubs. Television may lead to poor health, through rushed meals, lack of sleep, lack of exercise and eyestrain.

Many children no longer read books. This will seriously affect their performance in higher forms, for reading is the key to all higher study, and needs constant practice.

Answer the following questions.
- Does TV have too much sex and violence?
- Are the news media biased?
- Have TV talk shows gone too far with their sensationalized topics?
- Should the content of Internet be regulated?
- Are media shaping our values?
- IS TV harmful for our children?
- Do media drive foreign policy?
- Are newspapers insensitive to minorities?
- Is emphasis on body image harmful to our society?
- Should the names of rape victims be reported?
- Should tobacco advertising be restricted?
- Should the media cover criminal trials?
- Do media reports of crime heighten the fears of citizens?
- Is coverage of political campaigns fair?
- Is advertising ethical?
- Do paparazzi threaten First Amendment Rights?
- Does concentration of ownership jeopardize media content?
- Does the globalization of media industries homogenize media content?

Вправа 21. Make the statements about the Media. Use any correct expressions for giving opinion.
Вправа 22. Find the odd one out.
Go on a) strike b) holiday c) work.
You can go to work, but not go on work.
1. have a) plastic surgery b) property c) death
2. break a) contract b) price c) window
3. make a) comparison b) payment c) discovery
4. commit a) suicide b) offence c) business
5. perform a) computations b) contract c) match
6. win a) team b) prize c) contract

Вправа 23. Read the text. Make questions to the text.
Newspapers, magazines, radio, television — these are mass media, which are inseparable from our life. Nowadays we are better informed than ever. Of course, not all papers and programs are good. So what? You don’t have to read or match the bad ones. Choose what you want.

Most national papers express a political opinion, and people choose the newspaper they read according to their own political beliefs. My parents read “Uralskiy Rabochiy”, but I don’t read it. I prefer youth magazines, such as “New Musical Express”, because they contain a lot of interesting information about music.

There are local papers in all parts of Russia. Many free local newspapers are delivered to people’s homes whether they ask for them or no. They usually contain a lot of advertisements. Those who pay for the ads try to attract customers to their store to buy goods, which are not always the best and cheapest.

I’m not much of an expert, but in my opinion the rapid pace of our life gives priority to radio and especially television. I think that radio (I mean central radio) is regulated by the Government. It broadcasts official points of view, as I feel it. The number of ads is limited. I don’t think that the media now are out of control.

Television, like radio, focused on popular entertainment to provide large audiences. You can’t help noticing that there are many American films on our TV, not best ones, I’m afraid. Many of them feature fighting, shooting, murder. Children like them, you won’t drag such kids from the box.

TV advertising, on the one hand, annoys a significant proportion of audience. Just imagine, you are sitting comfortably in your chair watching a thriller, and every fifteen minutes it is interrupted by ads! Of course, it gets on spectator’s nerves! But some people like it, or, to be more exact, they like the way of presentation of ads. But whether we like TV advertising or not, the main point is that TV today depends on advertisers and advertising to a great extend. Today TV will not survive without advertising.

Вправа 24. Write an essay. Chose the theme.
1. Assessing the impact of the internet and computers.
2. Media & Society
3. Mass Media
4. How Mass Media Simulate Political Transparency
5. Media in your life.
6. Media effects.

Вправа 25. Read and discuss the text. Make the title of the text.
The name Canada comes from a word in the language of the St. Lawrence Iroquoians, canada, meaning “village” or “settlement”. In 1535, inhabitants of the present-day Quebec City region used the word to direct Jacques Cartier towards the village of Stadacona. Cartier used the word ‘Canada’ to refer to not only that village, but the entire area subject to Donnacona, Chief at Stadacona. By 1547, maps began referring to this and the surrounding area as Canada.

The French colony of Canada referred to the part of New France along the Saint Lawrence River and the northern shores of the Great Lakes. Later, it was split into two British colonies, called Upper Canada and Lower Canada until their union as the British Province of Canada in 1841. Upon Confederation in 1867, the name Canada was officially adopted for the new dominion, which was referred to as the Dominion of Canada until the 1950s. As Canada increasingly acquired political authority and autonomy from Britain, the federal government increasingly simply used Canada on state documents and treaties. Canada’s two official languages, English and French, are the mother tongues of 59.7 % and 23.2 % of the population. English and French have equal status in federal courts, Parliament, and in all federal institutions. The public has the right, where there is sufficient demand, to receive federal government services in either English or French. While multiculturalism is official policy, to become a citizen one must be able to speak either English or French, and 98.5 % of Canadians speak at least one (English only: 67.5 %, French only: 13.3 %, both: 17.7 %).
French is mostly spoken in Quebec, but there are substantial Francophone populations elsewhere, mainly in the northern parts of New Brunswick, eastern, northern and southwestern Ontario, and southern Manitoba. Of those who speak French as a first language, 85% live in Quebec. Ontario has the largest French population outside Quebec. French has been the only official language of Quebec since 1974; New Brunswick is the only officially bilingual province in the country. No provinces other than Quebec and New Brunswick have constitutionally official language(s) as such, but French is used as a language of instruction, in courts, and other government services in all of the majority English or Inuktitut speaking provinces and territories. In Ontario, French has some legal status but is not fully co-official. Several aboriginal languages have official status in Northwest Territories. Inuktitut is the majority language in Nunavut, and one of three official languages in the territory.

Non-official languages are important in Canada, with 5,202,245 people listing one as a first language.

Вправа 26. Correct the mistakes connected with countable and uncountable nouns.

Вправа 29. Translate the sentences. Pay attention to the idioms.

The increase of population and the industrial revolution that paced it have, as everybody knows, changed the world.

The Western movie, for example, often quoted as timeless and ritualistic, has since the end of World War II been highly flexible.

If justice is to be done to the mass arts which are, after all, one of the most remarkable and characteristic achievements of industrial society, some of the common objections to them need to be faced.

The popular arts of our industrial civilization are geared to technical changes which occur, not gradually, but violently and experimentally
An important factor in communication in the mass arts is high redundancy. TV plays, radio serials, entertainers, tend to resemble each other (though there are important and clearly visible differences for the expert consumer).

The mass media give perpetual lessons in assimilation, instruction in role-taking, the use of new objects, the definition of changing relationships.

The definition of culture is changing as a result of the pressure of the great audience, which is no longer new but experienced in the consumption of its arts.

Our definition of culture is being stretched beyond the fine art limits imposed on it by Renaissance theory, and refers now, increasingly, to the whole complex of human activities.

Get Rich Quick

Do you want to get rich quick? Many people have the dream of being rich so that they can enjoy the finer things in life. If you want to get rich so that you can spend time with your family, go on that vacation that you have dreamed about, or have more peace when it comes to your finances, there is a lot that you can do.

While everyone wants to “get rich quick,” being rich is not as important as being wealthy. The two are often used interchangeably, but there is a difference between the two and understanding that difference is vital to actually acquiring the greater of the two. Many people want to have lots of money and they want that money now—they want to get rich quick. Being rich entails how much money you have that can be immediately spent, which is what most people think they want. Wealth, on the other hand, is how much money you have stored up. That, in the long run, is what is more important. Many of the people that are rich spend equal to or even faster than what they earn; as a result, they are not wealthy at all. Wealth is what we should all be after, and not just riches. The wealthy always have riches but the rich do not always have wealth. So instead of a “get rich quick” attitude, we should instead have a “build wealth steadily” attitude.

Вправа 39. Read the article and make the best title.

Ever-greedy corporate marketeers have found a new means of ensnaring children into the net of consumerism. Not content with bombarding kids on TV, in the streets and at schools, marketing executives are utilizing Internet games to tout their wares to unsuspecting children. The latest insidious and pernicious ploy of more than eighty percent of the world’s chocolate and snack food companies has been brought to light in a new report, entitled “It’s Child’s Play: Advergaming and the Online Marketing of Food to Children”. It is “the first comprehensive analysis of the nature and scope of online food advertising to children”. The research was commissioned by America’s Kaiser Family Foundation and exposes the questionable tactics of companies such as Mars, Hersheys and McDonalds in targeting children to promote their products. The latter company, in particular, focuses its ads more on enticing kids with cheap, giveaway toys than food.

The report sadly increases the likelihood of a new word entering the English vocabulary — the “advergame” — an immoral and callous technique to get kids hooked while having online fun. In addition, a variety of other advertising and marketing tactics designed to lure kids into spending an unlimited amount of online time being blitzed with corporate logos are employed on these sites. These include viral marketing (encouraging children to contact their peers about a specific product or brand, found on 64% of sites); sweepstakes and promotions (65%); memberships (25%); on-demand access to TV ads (53%); and incentives for product purchase (38%). Kaiser’s William Dietz said the scale of this advertising was an “eye opener”. It raises ethical concerns about the role food advertising plays in childhood obesity. Kaiser vice president Vicky Rideout warned the reach of online advertising is much deeper than that of television.

Вправа 46. Read the article.
London to host 2012 Olympics

London will host the 2012 Olympic Games. The International Olympic Committee announced the decision on July 6 in Singapore. It was the closest race to decide the venue of the Games in Olympics history. Up to the last minutes of the final decision it looked like Paris, the longtime favorite, would win. However, in the final round of voting London managed to edge its rival by 54 to 50 votes. Crowds in London erupted with joy. Meanwhile, Parisians that had gathered to celebrate a Paris victory went home in stunned silence.

It is the first time the Games will be held in London since 1948. Organizers gathered an impressive collection of high profile sporting and political figures to support London. A huge boost came when Nelson Mandela backed the British capital. Other big names who championed London were Australian Olympic champion Kathy Freeman, England’s soccer captain David Beckham and Prime Minister Tony Blair. He took time off from the G8 summit to dash to Singapore. His eleventh-hour visit certainly paid dividends

Which do you agree and disagree with?
London deserved to get the Olympics.

Consumer society

“There is enough on earth for everybody’s need, but not for everyone’s greed.”

Gandhi
If we only bought things we needed, there would be enough for everybody. What do we need? What you need depends on how old you are and your way of life.

If we don’t need to buy so much, we don’t need to work so much. We can take part-time jobs or reduce our working day from 8 hours to 6 hours. Some people are leaving very well paid jobs to live a healthier life in the countryside or a more exciting life abroad. This is called ‘downshifting’. Parents can spend more time with their children and the unemployed are given more opportunities to work.

If we start to respect saving the earth more than spending money, we will become ‘conservers’. When we are conservers, we try to choose environmentally-friendly products which are durable and last a long time. We may find growing our own vegetables or making our own clothes more rewarding than buying them.

What was the best thing you bought last week?

Could you choose from lots of different types? We like having a choice of what to buy. People who buy things are called consumers. Consumers have choices. We usually choose the colour, taste, smell or size of what we buy, but there are other choices we can make. The following questions will help you to consider these choices.

Where was it made?

If you don’t like the place it was made, you might decide not to buy that particular product. A lot of people don’t buy products from certain countries when they don’t like the way the country is run. Was it made in a factory or on a local farm? If the product was unbelievably cheap, the people who made it might not have been paid much.

Who made it?

Do you know? If a friend made it, you probably like it more and you will want to keep it for a long time. If it was made by somebody who enjoyed making it, the quality and the design are probably better. Or does it look like it might have been assembled in a large factory?

There are children in Asia who make Santa Claus dolls for European children to play with. The children who make the toys don’t celebrate Christmas because they are not Christian; they think of the dolls as work. Would it be better if the children in Europe made their own Christmas dolls?

What is it made from?

One of the places where we want to buy expensive luxuries is at the airport’s duty-free shop. Next to the chocolate and cigarettes, there are beautifully-shaped bottles and compact boxes full of perfumes and creams which promise to make you look and feel more beautiful. If you look at the ingredients you will find that the perfumes are mainly alcohol and the creams are mainly made of petroleum!

Almost all products are sold in packaging. Some products have too much packaging, creating more rubbish and using up resources. Some use recycled packaging, which is better for the environment.

Next time you go shopping, think about what you really need to buy. Don’t deprive yourself of things you like, but decide what you should buy before you go out, so that you won’t be influenced by advertisements or promotions. If it is more expensive to buy goods which don’t have much packaging and things which are more durable, buy less. If you can choose to work less, decide which things you would like to make, do or grow yourself. Even though you have less money, your life will become richer!

Вправа 57. Read the story. Retell, and discuss. Write a short poem about desert.

Not a drop to drink
Two thousand years ago the Romans tried to turn this desert into an oasis, a place full of rivers and lakes and canals. The Romans wanted to build big white temples and big houses under the hot sun. They wanted to turn this desert into a new paradise, full of trees and flowers and fields. They planned to sail their ships across the desert. But they failed.

The Romans failed because they looked only at the surface of the land. They tried to make the desert into a paradise with water and trees by digging canals and building aqueducts. They dug canals to connect the sea and the rivers. They built their aqueducts, long pipes to carry water, for many miles across the desert, to carry water from one town to another.

Now, I can still see some of the old aqueducts. There are a few white stone arches under the hot sun in the dry desert. They are falling down. The water in the aqueducts dried up. There is nothing left of the Roman canals. The water in the canals disappeared and the canals filled up with sand again, but if you look carefully it is still possible to see where they were. There are lines across the desert that look like very old roads.

In 1777 a Portuguese explorer called Emanuel de Melo Pimento came to this desert with a plan to turn it into an oasis. At that time in history, everybody was very excited by new discoveries in science and technology and engineering. Emanuel de Melo Pimento was a man of his times, one of the new scientist-philosopher-engineers who believed that all the problem of people in the world could be solved by science and philosophy.
He believed that he could turn the hot, dry desert where nobody had enough water to drink into an oasis, into a utopia. He wanted to build a completely new city here, he wanted to build a completely new country. He wanted to call it “Pimentia”, named after himself, of course.

Emanuel de Melo Pimento had a lot of money. He had a lot of money because a lot of rich people in Portugal and Spain gave him money to go around the world and explore. These rich people invested in Emanuel de Melo Pimento's journeys of exploration and discovery. Now they had given him money to build a new city, a new country, a utopia, to create an oasis in the desert. These rich people hoped to become even richer. Emanuel de Melo Pimento took their money and used it not to try and change the surface of the land, like the Romans, but to change what is under the surface of the desert. Emanuel de Melo Pimento wanted to dig canals under the desert, to make big underground rivers where the water would not dry up under the heat of the sun.

He failed, of course.

Some of his plans still survive. I have some of them here in my office in the Institute of Hydrogeological Research where I write this. They are very beautiful works of art. But not one of his plans was ever completed — they needed too much money, more money than even the rich people in Portugal and Spain gave to Emanuel de Melo Pimento. Instead, Emanuel de Melo Pimento spent all the money on building beautiful buildings where he could live and dream of his new city.

From where I write in my office in the Institute I can still see one of the old buildings that Emanuel de Melo Pimento lived in before he went mad and died here. He failed because he tried to look only under the land. The Romans failed because they looked only at the surface of the land. Now, I will succeed, because I am not looking at the surface of the desert, or under it. I am looking up above the desert. I am looking up at the sky.

Now, at the beginning of the 21st century we have the ability to go up into space. We have the ability to build satellites. Some people have said that I am mad, just like Emanuel de Melo Pimento, but I know that I will succeed. I have spent many years making plans to build satellites that can not only forecast the weather, but change it.

The first of the satellites went up into space last week, and now, using a computer here in my office, I am telling it what to do. The programmes I spent many years planning and designing all work perfectly.

I look up at the sky, and it is starting to rain.

It has now been raining for three weeks. It has not stopped raining for 21 days. At first, the people were very happy to see so much rain. Now the desert has flooded. Where before there was only sand, now there is water. Where there was desert, now there is sea.

But the rain that has come down from the sky has destroyed many houses. Some people now have nowhere to live. The rain was stronger and heavier than I planned. I was right to look up above the desert, not at its surface or under the sand, but I did not expect the force of nature to be so strong.

Have I too failed? I do not know. Will people in the future think of me as I now think of the Romans and of the failed mad scientist Emanuel de Melo Pimento?

I have turned the desert into a sea. We can now sail ships across the desert, like the Romans dreamed. But the people do not thank me. They have water, but they have nothing to drink.
